Bosun Hall History

The Bosun Hall was built by J C Harris, a Fabian Socialist from England in 1897.

After finding silver ore on his ranch land near New Denver, he built the Hall for the use of the people of the Village and named it after his close friend, the "Bosun". It was eventually sold for a nominal sum to the New Denver Community Club to manage and maintain.

For over one hundred years the Bosun has played a vital role for the entire community from Summit Lake on down through the Slovan Valley. Events and gatherings of every imaginable variety continue to take place here: weddings and funerals, meetings, seminars, school concerts, theatre productions and community dances.

The spirit of generosity and commitment to community make all of this possible.

Present Day

In 2004 the Lucerne Association for Community Education (LACE) instituted the "Bringing Back the Bosun" program to implement needed repairs and renovations. Following a hiatus of ten years, the Bosun Hall once again serves as a community hub for all ages, interests and activities.

The Village of New Denver contracts with this charitable organization of dedicated community volunteers to manage the Hall.

Rental rates are kept reasonable by income from the Donation Store. This used goods centre, staffed by our intrepid volunteers, provides an ongoing source of operating funds.

Donations are also greatly appreciated:
